

Supercharge your impact in 15 minutes or less

What can you do to make more of a difference?

When you give back, you want to do the most good you can with what you have—especially when inflation and the markets could impact your financial plans. Try one (or more!) of these ideas to supercharge your impact with your time, talent, or money during this season of giving.

★ TAKE ACTION

Give more and save more

Who doesn't like the idea of reducing taxes and also having more to give? That's exactly why so many generous people are turning to donor-advised funds to support their giving. Take this five-question quiz to see if a donor-advised fund is a good choice for you.

IN 5 MINUTES, YOU CAN...

- Start reflecting on what inspires you and identify issues that bother you the most to answer the question: Where do I want to focus my giving?
- Follow an organization you care about on social media and share one of their posts.
- Open a donor-advised fund, like a charitable investment account, for an easy and inexpensive way to be more strategic about your charitable giving.
- Make a donation of any size to one of your favorite charities. Every little bit helps. Consider an unrestricted gift so they can have flexibility to use the funds where they're needed most.
- Send an email to your financial advisor to see if there are charitable strategies you should consider such as "bunching" or donating stock.
- Sign up to volunteer in your community or email an organization to ask about their volunteering opportunities, such as serving on their board.

IN 10 MINUTES, YOU CAN...

- Check your company's benefits package to see if they offer any donation matches or incentives for volunteering.
- Set a target budget for your charitable giving, and make sure you stick to it by scheduling automatic, recurring donations (i.e., automatic transfer to a separate bank account, donor-advised fund, or your favorite charity).
- Host a social media fundraiser for an organization you care about.
- Research one charity on Candid, Charity Navigator, or another online research tool.
- Search an organization's website or social media pages for a wishlist of their most critical donation items.
- Participate in a Day of Service or charity drive at work by bringing canned food, toys, books, or other goods for collection.

IN 15 MINUTES, YOU CAN...

- Search for an employee resource group at your company that aligns with your areas of interest and sign up to receive email updates about their events.
- Share something you learned about a cause or organization at the dinner table or with your family.
- Have a phone call with a nonprofit representative to learn more about its programs or volunteer opportunities.
- Write and revise a draft charitable mission statement to focus your giving.
- Invite your family or friends to commit to a shared giving tradition, such as a volunteer day or pooling funds for a shared donation.
- Name a charity as a full or partial beneficiary on your financial accounts, or explore how to incorporate your donor-advised fund. This is an easy way to create a lasting legacy.
